Issue overview

Welcome to the third issue of this year's AI Matters Newsletter. In this issue, we will summarize the achievement of SIGAI in the past year (June 1, 2021 – June 30, 2022). This annual report will highlight some of the many activities we have completed as a SIG, hoping to provide inspiration for members who wish to get more involved.

Ziyu Yao is co-editor of AI Matters. She is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Computer Science at George Mason University. Her research interests lie in natural language processing (NLP) and artificial intelligence (AI), particularly building natural language interfaces that can reliably assist humans in knowledge acquisition and task completion. She also works in NLP/AI for other disciplines such as Software Engineering and Bioinformatics.

Anuj Karpatne is co-editor of AI Matters. He is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Computer Science at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University (Virginia Tech). He leads the Physics-Guided Machine

Learning (PGML) Lab at Virginia Tech, where he develops novel ways of integrating scientific knowledge (or physics) with machine learning methods to accelerate scientific discovery from data.
